

Theory of Change

Theory of change (logic) models express linearity and simplicity, but we also know that when using Systems Thinking to develop, influence impacts and Monitor & Evaluate programs, that by nature the work of international development is systemic, complex, networked and in need of depthful thinking. Therefore we use a logic model to begin the conversation, but understand and focus on understanding the relationships (the arrows) as their own distinctions within the system. — Eo7